

STAINLESS STEEL SURFACE FINISHES

The BSSA Stainless Steel Surface Finishes pack is now available.

Aimed primarily at architects and specifiers, the Surface Finishes pack provides details and guidance on the wide variety of stainless steel surface finishes available. The pack includes the 'do's' and 'don'ts' in selecting and specifying surface finishes, together with information on maintenance, cleaning and an updated, classified resources section for further information.

Complemented by a hard-back ring binder, the Surface Finishes pack is complete with guides on applications as well as practical technical information written very much with the end user in mind. Additionally, there are extensive case studies showing exciting samples both from the U.K and across the world, illustrating just how versatile stainless can be.

What makes this pack unique is the comprehensive range of samples it contains. These include machine-polished, electro-polished, brushed, 1- and 2-sided patterned and even coloured. Provided by the BSSA's own member companies, they will help users decide just which finishes best suits their needs, while also giving the opportunity to get up close to the stainless steel itself.

If you are an architect or designer considering using stainless steel, then the Surface Finishes pack is the ideal publication to assist you. It comes as a complete package, not only providing excellent sources of information, but also cataloguing further publications readily available to help with specific issues.

The Stainless Steel Surface Finishes pack is available at a cost of £40.00 + VAT + Postage and Packaging. (£58.17 in total, UK)

Contact details for all BSSA member companies and further information is available on our website. In addition to this the Stainless Steel Advisory Service is also available on our website; the service provides expert technical assistance on a wide range of queries relating to stainless steel.
